My Father's Garden

This documentary film is about the use and misuse of technology on the American farm. The filmmaker uses her own story of her dad in the orange groves of Florida to illustrate her story along with South Dakota farmer Fred Kirschenmann who uses all organic technology and knowledge on his prosperous farm. This is a true, yet compelling film that makes the audience think about what is best in farming today versus the past.

The World In A Box

This informational film is about the development, use and need for geographic information systems. Several examples of successful GIS are presented to viewers along with how people work together in achieving a common goal where GIS is used.
